

---

Methods of Irrigation Scheduling for Vegetable Production

This video describes the four UGA-recommended irrigation methods for vegetable production: the systematic method, the crop evapotranspiration method, the soil moisture-sensor method, and the water-budget method. It describes how each method works, the tools and resources needed for each one, and the pros and cons of the four methods.